Eva – the sensitive power-humidifier

With Eva, Stadler Form is launching a humidifier lady who accurately and adaptively creates a pleasant indoor climate

Zug Switzerland, August 2016, The power lady from the design company Stadler Form not only captives with her external appearance, but also specifically with her sophisticated technology: Using ultrasound technology, she blows the mist up to 1.4 meters high, providing for precise humidification with an external sensor. At the same time, the sensor serves as a remote control so that also the handling of Eva is very convenient. Despite the power, she is a sensitive lady – thanks to the Adaptive Humidity™ technology in auto mode, she automatically adjusts the output level to quietly and efficiently reach and maintain the desired humidity. The selectable water pre-heating not only increases the humidification output, but also emits a comfortable warm mist. Eva is also very flexible and offers the choice of five output levels and selectable humidity from 30% – 75%. She does not always have to show that she is working – the LEDs can be dimmed or even switched off completely. And to ensure your well-being is perfect, Eva distributes a scent of your choice!
