Slow Luxury with Stadler Form: Where aesthetics are built to last and wellbeing is part of everyday life

Stadler Form shows how thoughtful design, quality and a cosy living environment contribute to a new understanding of luxury.

Slow Luxury stands for mindful consumption, high-quality materials and timeless design – and for products that enhance everyday well-being in the long term. Much of what is now summarised under this term has been a hallmark of Stadler Form for many years. The appliances combine understated design with well-thought-out functions, blend naturally into a variety of home environments and, as long-lasting roommates, ensure a pleasant indoor climate. This everyday added value becomes particularly important during the heating season, when indoor air becomes drier. The humidifiers in the Oskar range, Karl, Karl big, Noah and Noah Pro, as well as the George air washer embody Slow Luxury in all its facets, from conscious product choice and quality to care, right through to tangible comfort in your own home.

Karl & Karl big – Quality that is looked after

A cosy home is created with things that reliably contribute to your well-being in everyday life. Anyone who chooses Karl or Karl big is making a conscious investment in a good indoor climate – and in a product that will be part of their everyday life for many years to come. The fabric cover gives both humidifiers a homely feel. At the same time, they offer high performance: Karl humidifies rooms up to 100 m² with up to 690 g of water per hour, whilst Karl big covers up to 150 m² and delivers up to 1,100 g per hour. Both evaporators feature an auto mode, can be conveniently filled from the top whilst in operation, and can be controlled via a smartphone app. Because the commitment to customer care doesn't end with the purchase, Stadler Form offers service packages including professional cleaning, a functional check, new accessories and a one-year extended warranty on the service carried out.

Noah & Noah Pro – The luxury of feeling at home

A home thrives on its design as much as on the atmosphere it creates. Noah and Noah Pro combine both: using the natural principle of evaporation, these two humidifiers ensure a consistent level of humidity. Noah is suitable for rooms up to 110 m², whilst Noah Pro is designed for large, open-plan living areas up to 200 m². A digital hygrostat, along with auto and turbo modes, maintains the desired humidity level or quickly increases it as required. Using the app, you can check the humidity and water level whilst on the move and control all functions, ensuring the indoor climate is just right as soon as you get home. The integrated fragrance container can be used with essential oils to add a personalised scent if desired. For that extra touch, both models are also available in the new Titanium colour variant, which gives them a particularly elegant look. Noah and Noah Pro thus enhance your living space in two ways: with outstanding design and a room climate that feels pleasant. A five-year warranty rounds off the Noah Pro package, ensuring long-lasting enjoyment of the product.

The Oskar family – design that stands the test of time

Durability is evident when a product continues to impress, both aesthetically and functionally, for years on end. This is precisely what the Oskar range stands for: Oskar, with his distinctive cubic shape, was developed back in 2008 and, even after almost two decades, can still be found in many Swiss households. The range now extends from Oskar little for rooms up to 30 m², through Oskar for up to 50 m², to Oskar big for up to 100 m². Behind the minimalist design lies tried-and-tested evaporator technology. Oskar humidifies the air in the room naturally, whilst operating quietly and efficiently. A hygrostat maintains the desired humidity level, whilst night mode dims or deactivates the LEDs. The reminder function also alerts you when the filter needs changing, making regular maintenance easier.

George – Added value that lasts

Slow Luxury begins with choosing products that offer genuine added value and sensibly combine multiple functions. As a 2-in-1 air washer, George performs two tasks at once: he humidifies rooms up to 60 m² whilst simultaneously purifying the air of particles and unpleasant odours. Four power settings, a built-in hygrostat and auto mode ensure that only as much humidification is provided as is actually necessary. Maintenance is straightforward too: the disc pack and water tray can simply be washed in the dishwasher. George thus embodies a more conscious approach to consumption, focusing on clever functions and long-term benefits rather than two separate appliances. The result is an optimal indoor climate that contributes to your well-being at home, day after day. For a particularly refined touch in your living space, George is now available in titanium as well as white.
